Rhode Island Artillery Using Smoke Bombs; Has Many Expert Men.

Smoke bomb practice has been started by battery A, Rhode Island artiflery near Camp Pershing. The Rhode Island battery goes out to the artiflery practice range each morning and spends the greater part of the day on the range.

The smoke bombs are being used in the artiflery practice in place of real shells. A signalman is stationed on the range mean the target for the guinners.

The gumers are given the target for the gumers. The gumers are given the target and set their gums after figuring out the firing data. This data is telephoned to the signalman on the range. He takes his posinalman on the range. He takes his posi-tion at a point corresponding to the place where the shell would have hit had a real shell been fixed by the gunners and the officers observe the smoke to see how far from the given target the smoke bomb shows. The range is cor-rected and the shot again tried as if in

For Small "Purps" Has Depleted Market.

Los Angeles Times in a story Harry has written about El Pase's famous hyproduct in the "purp" line.

Carr was here covering the troop mobilization and the Mexican model: on the border and, being a canine expert, he had occasion to observe the Chihushun dog market and make a few observations regarding the farmous little dogs which are no bigger than a frankfurter if they are genuine and who grow to be hounds if they are not.

Dogs Spanish Style Dogs Spanish Style.

Harry has written a feature story which he has dedicated to these puns served. Spanish style in which he kis dedicated to these puns served. Spanish style in which he kids the militimmen who have been buying the little dogs for souvenirs to sand home to their near "war brides." Part's story about the "perros Chihuahuenos" listens as follows.

Lown on the Mexican border there are several regiments composed of heys from Havard and other blooded young men with much coin. They have become terrilleally excited over Chinuahuahua dogs.

rifleally excited over Chinualua dogs.

A Chihurahua dog is the canne explanation of a vacuum. It's so small a good sized rat could shove it off the sidewalk. It's so small that the only way you can see it is to shut one eye. It has ears like a lackrabbit and a first round head like a billiard ball that has been treated with hair restorer. It has rifliculous little popeyes and It oever does anything except shiver. There is nothing else of importance about a Chihuna dog except the cost.

exept shiver. There is nothing else of importance about a Chi-hunhua dos except the cost.

Hosrenians Buy Them.
These Boston militiames arrived on the border booking for adventure and schievement. Most of them expected to find El Feso a little adobe fown with Spatish seconties alaging love somes in all the hammocks. They thought every night after somdown the wolves came up and bit you and the painted liddans whooped. They found a city of Tenot, equipped with adding machines and cash registers. All the senoritas they could find were stiting in the dist among the fless. They were quite discourarded about Chihushua doss.

Half as hour after the first Chiheahua dog was discovered, the epidemic was in prograss. When I left the border there were only two classes of military societs, those possessing Chihushua dogs and those not possessing Chihushua dogs.

The news soon sprend to Junce, the little Mexican town on the other side of the Rio Grande. The peons over there are half starred. Mexican women work for a square meal, into this condition of despair, some one brought the gladings that the gringe soldier had been selved with a consuming passion for Chihushua dogs.

Every Spick who could dig up a lop-eared pup with a head like a toy balloon dashed over to the American side. You see Assycans standing in bunches in the street in front of the hotels, each with a pup under his arm.

Rare "Hird."

As a matter of fact, a real Chihushua dogs is an exceedingly rarecritier. The towns whole supply wave out the first morning. The other peons who couldn't find any Chihushua dogs hopefaily grabbel up the first pups they could find and joined the rush.

Happily, all jouthful Mexican dogs looked alike Chihushua dogs to the tenderfoot milish. Since then the choles have been selling ball dog pups. Coyote pups and New Foundiant pups and severything that could like the bus of four feet and a couple of ears.

In their infant state, they all looked like Chihushua dogs to the glided law from Boeting. Chihuahua dogs and howe we would minum

One For Mrs. Lansing.
One of the pape was purchased by a youth well known to ortheial circles. He sent it to Mrs. Lansing, the wife of the secretary of state, the Lansings being old family friends of said militia youth.

The purchased pup was about the size of a roll of butter. The suite-ful Mexican who sold him told the militia boy that the hound would never grow harger but would go through life able to crawl through a knothele without touching either side except with his ears.

As the trustful cannonser from Harvard hurried away to the express office, the clerk of the hotel remarked. "If that thing is a real Chinushus dog, it won't grow no bigger than a tamale but my opinion is he'd better finish the job and send his lady friend a peny cart and a harness to go with him."

The major said that it to 10 of these letters are received daily and some are real significent. The wife of one man sent a letter to the headquarters and issked for her husband. The commanding officer of his company was instructed to investigate the case. The major said that it to 20 of these letters are received daily and some are real significent. The wife of each man sent a letter to the headquarters and issked for her husband. The commanding officer of his company was instructed to investigate the was not in need of anything. All of which was communicated to the woman by headquarters. A six page letter was received from the woman She said that all the statements of her spoose were absolutely untrue and further begged for his release, saying that she was badly in need of funds.

"What Are You ficing to Do About it?"

Now what are you going to do with a case like that " said the officer. "It is inevitably the reverse of this little incident. These communications have to survive the usual red tape. Upon receiving them at headquarters they are transferred to the commanding officer of the man referred to and then to Gen. Frederick Furiston, commander of the border forces, and then they are returned. It is a week or more until we ascertain whether a man is going to receive his discharge.

These communications are the direct result of a bulletin that was issued by president Wilson, which quoted him as saying that all who are the sole support of dependents in the national guard shall be released and allowed to return to their homes. Some of the letters are quite pathetic."
